Specification

The examiner has not checked the specification to the extent necessary to determine the presence of all possible minor errors (grammatical, typographical and idiomatic). Cooperation of the applicant(s) is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant(s) may become aware of in the specification, in the claims and in any future amendment(s) that applicant(s) may file.

Applicant(s) is also requested to complete the status of any copending applications referred to in the specification by their Attorney Docket Number or Application Serial Number, if any.

The status of the parent application(s) and/or any other application(s) cross-referenced to this application, if any, should be updated in a timely manner.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112/101

Claims 7-11 provide for the use of a zeolite composition, but, since the claim does not set forth any steps involved in the method/process, it is unclear what method/process applicant is intending to encompass. A claim is indefinite where it merely recites a use without any active, positive steps delimiting how this use is actually practiced.

Claims 7-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed recitation of a use, without setting forth any steps involved in the process, results in an improper definition of a process, i.e., results in a claim which is not a proper process claim under 35 U.S.C. 101. See for example Ex parte Dunki, 153 USPQ 678 (Bd.App. 1967) and Clinical Products, Ltd. v. Brenner, 255 F. Supp. 131, 149 USPQ 475 (D.D.C. 1966).

Art Unit: 1793

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 2, 4 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

These claims recite “advantageously” which casts doubt on the actual intended scope of the limitations directly before and after this modifier. Claim 6 recites “preferably” which also casts doubt on the scope of the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US 5,587,003 to Bulow et al. taken with US 6,638,340 to Kanazirev et al.

The instantly claimed invention is directed to an adsorbent material comprising at least two zeolites, for example a clinoptilolite combined with zeolite A, X, Y or chabazite.

Bulow et al. are relied on for the teaching that both carbon dioxide and water can be removed from gaseous streams by employing clinoptilolite.

Kanazirev et al. are relied on for the teaching that both carbon dioxide and water can be removed from gaseous streams by employing zeolites X, Y or A.

Accordingly, it is considered that the instantly claimed adsorbent would have been obvious to the skilled artisan at the time the invention was made, because it requires no more than using two substances together that are both known individually for the same function. The examiner has carefully considered the data in the examples in the specification, but can derive no synergistic sort of effect from the use of the mixtures, and therefore it would appear that the effect is merely additive in nature and provides no evidence of anything unexpected being achieved.

With respect to limitations on the physical form of the adsorbent, it is considered that selection of powder form, particulate form, mixing of powders, and so forth will be directed by the apparatus in which the material will ultimately be employed, and the skilled artisan in this field is more than capable of selecting the best parameters for the adsorbent material during the separation process.

See particularly columns 1 and 2 of Bulow et al. and columns 6-7 of Kanazirev et al.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Applicants are advised that any evidence to be provided under 37 CFR 1.131 or 1.132 and any amendments to the claims and specification should be submitted prior to final rejection to be considered timely. It is anticipated that the next office action will be a final rejection.
